TRA named head of Arab telecom regulators network

BEIRUT: Lebanon's Telecommunications Regulatory Authority was appointed head of the Arab Regulators Network of Telecommunication Wednesday. AREGNET is a 21-member organization that aims to establish standardized regulations and practices in the regional telecommunications industry. During a plenary session that marked AREGNET's change of command, TRA chief Imad Hoballah said he looked forward to embarking on AREGNET's proposal to establish common telecommunications infrastructure. – The Daily Star
